About the speakers and their topics

Keren Bielby-Clarke

University of Bradford, United Kingdom

How can the Sectra Education Portal be expanded throughout the university to benefit a larger number of students and teachers? What strategies can be implemented to use this platform effectively for teaching anatomy?

Keren Bielby-Clarke, Associate Professor at the University of Bradford, will share her perspectives on incorporating the Sectra Education Portal into her teaching methods.

Dr. Jacopo Junio Valerio Branca and Dr. Giulia Guarnieri

University of Florence

The Sectra Education Portal offers a wide range of applications within a university setting. Dr. Jacopo Junio Valerio Branca and Dr. Giulia Guarnieri will discuss their approaches to utilizing the platform, from its use in scientific studies to its role in classroom and remote teaching. They will also highlight how the platform makes clinical cases interactive for both high school and medical students.

Alessandra Westerlund

Linköping University, Sweden

By integrating the Sectra Education Portal into its teaching, Linköping University has transformed its medical education to focus entirely on digital histopathology. Alessandra Westerlund, a medical student and histology teaching assistant, will provide her insights and reflections on using the platform to enhance learning.
